CEEQUAL, sustainability & carbon in civil engineering

An introduction to CEEQUAL's progress, and the benefits of using the Scheme

Monday 19 July at 4pm for 4.30pm start

Institution of Civil Engineers Scotland

Venue: Scottish Engineering, 105 West George Street, Glasgow, G2 1QL

What is CEEQUAL?

CEEQUAL is the assessment and awards scheme for improving sustainability in civil engineering. CEEQUAL Awards celebrate the achievement and high environmental and social performance. Awards are made to projects which demonstrate through evidence that the clients, designers and contractors have gone beyond the legal environmental and social minima to achieve distinctive standards of performance.

Seminar synopsis

Roger Venables, CEEQUAL Chief Executive

In addition to an update on recent CEEQUAL progress, Roger will focus on three aspects of CEEQUAL: setting CEEQUAL in the context of the sustainability agenda; aligning it to the new low-carbon agenda exemplified by the 2009 ICE Report on Low Carbon Infrastructure; and in setting out the benefits of project teams using the Scheme.

Emma Clark, AECOM CEEQUAL Assessor

Emma has just completed a CEEQUAL Assessment for the first renewable energy project to be assessed using the Scheme. This part of the presentation will highlight how CEEQUAL can be used on any kind of civil engineering project, including the public realm, outlining the benefits for the developers, designers and wider members of the construction industry.
